Another year has come and gone so fast. It seems like only yesterday we were meeting new friends, and renewing old relationships. We hit the ground running in September beginning with Mountain Day and Terry Fox Run and never looked back. Every week or month had something special and within these pages we have tried our best to document the events of a BCS year. (Thank you to everyone who shared their photos with us.)

Putting together something like this is not always easy! But as you flip through this book we hope you will be able to look back and remember times past and say that they were good times.

Enjoy! This is for you.

The Yearbook Crew

To Kevin, Hannah, Megan, Odré, Kieran, Monty, and Emilie: a special thank you for giving up some of your summer holiday to help us put this together. Without you, we might still be working on it! :)

In Loving Memory of Illoma Carr

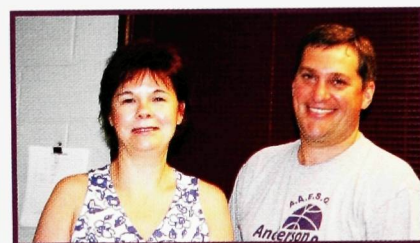

October 5, 1943 - January 9, 2009

Illoma has been associated with BCS since sometime in the 1980s - first as a counselor and later as both counselor and University Advisor. She also served the school as the Round Square Rep, and involved herself in many different areas of the School.

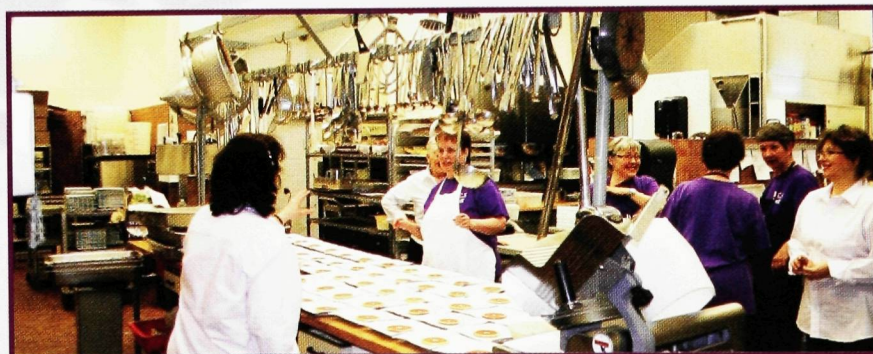

In all her roles, she helped students and she could always be relied upon to take the student's side when problems arose. She truly was the students' advocate. She was interested in a multitude of things, and in all the people she met. She was a people-helping person, a force to be reckoned with, one with a riotous and sometimes unexpected sense of humour, a person who, in spite of the pace she took to life, still took time to understand the lesson hidden in every leaf and rock.

A Typical Day at Williams House

5:00 am: Cindy has awakened to continue last night's studying for today's history test while the rest of the house is sleeping.

7:13 am: Mercedes has awakened late from her slumber and has quickly run out of her room to go make sure all Williams girls are awake and will be ready for clear-out at 7:50.

7:20 am: Paula has made it to everyone's room within 7 minutes to tell everyone good morning with a BIG smile and hug.

7:35 am: India has gotten out of her bed, realizing that it is 7:35 and she has to be ready to leave the house within the next 25 minutes, wondering why Jodi didn't wake her up earlier.

7:34 am: Ms. V has left the house to go take a shower at her apartment in McNaughton and will be all beautified and ready for a new day of teaching Math before chapel even starts. (Shushing Williams girls in chapel is her warm up.)

7:50 am: Gladys is screaming to Apolline, Natalia and Lea from downstairs to hurry up while complaining about the bad weather outside and how her bangs will be wet by the time she gets to school.

7:52 am: Natalia is running around the house remembering she has forgotten something in her room and has to go get it really quickly before she is really, really late for breakfast, cursing in Québécois. WHEN SCHOOL IS OVER

5:10 pm: Jodi has quickly come back from her crease to change before going to dinner. She is always super quick to get ready, but it's the coming back on time part that's tricky.

6:20 pm: Joey is already back home, ready for Cindy's massage session. As she steps onto Cindy's back, Mme. Hamelin passes by her room asking herself what in heaven's name Joey is doing on Cindy's back.

7:15 pm: No need to worry about where Lea is; she is in the kitchen eating toast with Nutella while listening to Caribbean music loudly.

7:15 pm: Apolline is in the kitchen with Lea, talking about how her day went adding jokes to the stories she is saying, trying to see if Lea would have a chance at beating the world record for the loudest laugh.

7:18 pm: The whole house knows Regina has arrived as we can hear her laughing from downstairs because the funniest thing happened to her when she was walking home.

7:20 pm: Linda will open tuck for the seventh time today because the ice cream sandwiches have been bought and have arrived.

7:22 pm: Coralie is going crazy trying to find the dollar she found in her pocket yesterday to go buy herself an ice cream sandwich before they are all gone (even though there are about 40 left in the box).

7:23 pm: Isabela is late for check-in because she had to stop and hug every single person she met on her way home. Today, a lot of people were walking home at once.

AFTER PREP

9:30 pm: Mrs. Rae has gone and checked on Monica in her house to see how she is doing now that she has a baby boy, wondering if she needs help to learn the rules of baseball.

9:45 pm: Jess has finished the hassle of putting everyone to bed and is reading her book in the front office waiting for the 10 o'clock mark so she can go home to her room in Gillard.

9:50 pm: Monica quickly stops by each room with baby Chaz on her hip to ask everyone how their muscles feel and to tell them that she is just a door away if we need any help for anything, also reminding them it is important to stretch before and after a game.

I found myself on the seemingly joined porch of two doors, one with the word Grier North and the other Grier South. I sighed in anticipation and entered the building through the Grier North door. To be honest, I was far too tired to notice anything specific about my immediate environment, blurred pictures, closed doors. I just needed to find where I would be sleeping and with whom I'd be rooming. I was greeted by David, my luggage as heavy as my eyelids. I did not have the most engaging conversation that I could have as he showed me to my room and I was asleep for the night.

I woke up early... perhaps too early, not accustomed to the schedule of my house. I eagerly attempted to explore the surroundings that I could not fully appreciate the previous night, and subsequently got myself locked out of the house; that is how I met Angus. He opened the door and introduced everyone on the first floor. The first thing that I noticed is how all people from different ethnic groups do not let that become a barrier to their friendship.

Having come into contact with all residents of Grier North, I learned they all have the same level of friendliness and willingness to find out about another human being which amazed me, so much so that a certain person was so eager to meet me that he woke me up in the middle of the night for the sole purpose of being able to say "Oh, Hey". That act has to a very close friendship.

I have many different stories to tell about many different people, and I believe that is the common badge that Grier North has: To be different. I've learned that in Grier North everyone has an identity, and everyone appreciates the individuality that their housemates exhibit. But at the same time, we try to abide by the same standard of excellence and strive to have the highest standard of respect for not only our superiors but for everyone that we come into contact with every day. For that reason, I will always be able to say, I am a Grier North boy.

South funny one-liners:

Nic Tomeo - Guess what, guess what? I'm house restricted, again!

Geordie Hancock - Do you really want to start this conversation?

Louie Lu - I am Taiwanese not Chinese!

Jonathan Burrogano - I'll make a lot of money from golf, and I am cool too.

Oscar Rubio - Mr. Bray is going to kill me because I'm going out with Alyssa.

Dominique Roumel - You hate me because I am black.

Rodrigo Fernandez Galan - No, you're wrong. I know I'm right.

Trevor Denver Simard - Army is the way to live.

Ricardo Galvan Sandoval - I love Ella.

Andres Simon Tamborrel - I am sorry, I am sorry, I love you Nick.

Fernando Tamer Aziz - Arrrrrrrrr, don't make me hurt you Geordie.

Aymeric Gallet - Huh? I don't understand.

Kevin Lu - You want to fight?

Gabriel Pinto - I have girlfriends, yippy!

Keita Yagi - Hey, that's harassment.

Mark Sinsky Daponte - Honest, it was Prep not a computer game!

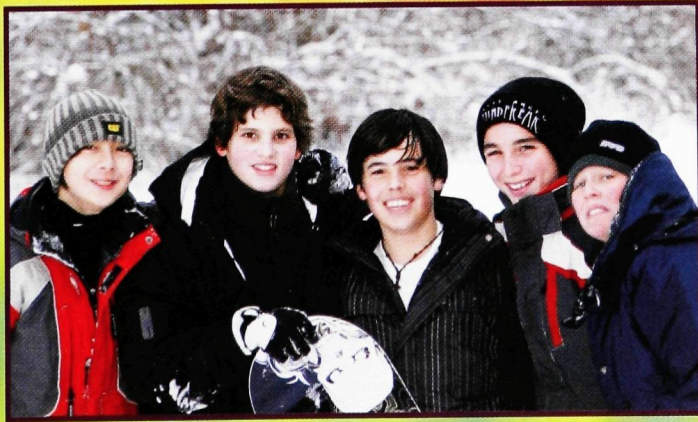

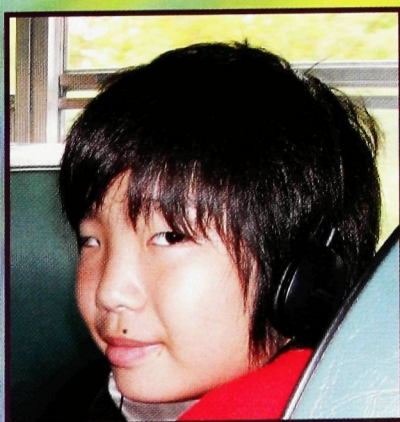

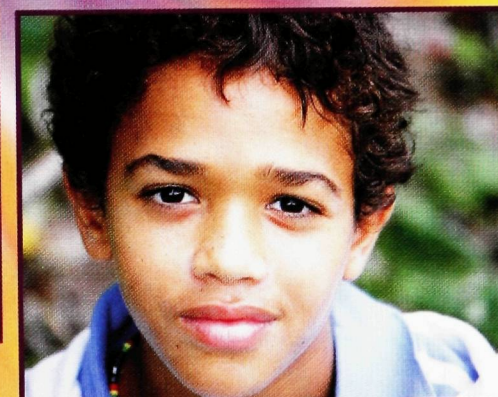

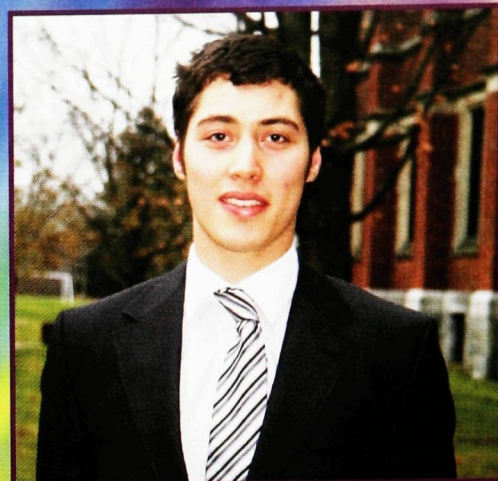

Eloi Nadeau - I am open for business.

Jean Maille - Fighting is for girls.

Hermann Eluere - Yes! I beat 'Call of Duty' for the seventh time.

James Millot - Stop! Stop! Yeah, yeah, that's what I thought.

JJ Crawford - I respect you, mate.

A typical morning before chapel for the Ross Girls goes a little something like this...

Marilou is early as always and has yet to find her Doc Martens which mysteriously disappeared four months ago. Sarah treks the difficult 500 metres from her house to school and begins to recite her lines to the next play as Emilie C twirls around Ross listening to her. Meanwhile, Britany is frantically looking for her other blonde half and is asking everyone if they have seen him. At the same time, Yasemin is showing off her new drivers licence and trying to find a way to change the 1 to a 0. Penelope has managed to get a ride to school and joins the Quebecois boys. Our other French connection, Anna-Eve, also joins them. Maxine arrives and is showing Amelie a picture of her horse and is talking so fast she can scarcely breathe. At the same time Odre is painting Amelie's nails and is trying to speak. Emma enters and her loud laughter resonates in the locker room. Hannah C giggles and jumps up to talk to her, followed by Megan and her boyfriend. Laura enters wearing the newest shades and looks for Marie who is applying makeup in the bathroom. Stephanie and Angie are hiding from the boys who all have a crush on them. Hannah W is looking for her iPod again. Helene is smiling and offers to help Hannah. Karell, Victoria and Alyssa are listening to music trying to figure out which songs would be best for their gymnastics performance. Steph, our on and off again Ross girl, is talking to the new member of our family, Clementine, who is warming up her choir voice. Emily W is making plans for next years carnival. Jenn, straight from the pool, wet hair flying everywhere, is running really fast so as not to be late for chapel. Mrs. Holland is waiting with a big smile as we all gather together in chapel.

This year in Ross we had more students than we have ever had before. This at first seemed like it could be an issue because we have a common room that is not designed for that many students. But the larger numbers turned out to be an advantage since we have so many house activities like cross-country, Carnival and track and field. It was good to know that we would have enough participants to be competitive. In years past, everyone had to do all of the events and activities. This year we were able to rotate and support our house rather than always be playing. We were able to do very well in cross-country and Carnival, but we really saw how nice it was to have so many people in the track and field events. We did extremely well at all three levels, Bantam, Junior and Senior. Along with our success in the house activities this year, Ross was a huge part of the sports teams here at BCS. With so many football and hockey players, we practically made up most of the teams. This really shows how Ross is a big part of this school. Although there were many new students this year, we think that everyone was able to fit in and find their place. And for those of us that are leaving we would like to send a special thank you to Mr. Madsen who has had the pleasure of being the Houseparent of the best house at BCS.

Twas the night before exams and all through the House not a creature was stirring not even a ... Wait! This is Gillard! Of course there were creatures stirring. Let's have a look behind the scenes and see what really happens when the TODs leave and the Houseparent is snug in her bed. A peek down the hallway of the top floor will show you that Malene, Yi Tong and Jeong are heading off down the stairs to the basement kitchen to cook up another batch of German-Asian cuisine. As they tiptoe past Aline's room they see that she is busy working on her Ph.D thesis simultaneously in French and English. They meet Amy who is on her way to check out the new Tuck. Catherine is busy applying make-up for a late-night rendezvous with you know who... as her roommate Jessica is practising for the next Pub Night. Jana is nowhere to be seen and is probably once again at the wrong place, at the wrong time. Regina is catching up on her Zzzzs from all of her roomie's late night chats. What's that sound coming from the end of the hall? It's Taylor trying to figure out how to sneak her horse up to her bedroom. Meanwhile back around the corner Stella is busy planning the first annual BCS fashion show. Sofia is on her way to McNaughton to visit Hugo, while Gabi is gazing dreamily out the window at Miguel's art and Tatyana is checking out flights to the Bahamas to be with ... And after her experience here, Vashti is working on financing her own chain of video stores. Moving down to the next floor we come upon Lyla, who is trying to wrestle Alexia who is working on her rugby moves, while Alexia's roomie Alexis is devouring the latest Celebrity Blogs. Our Third Form Mexican contingent (Monica, Mariana, Ceci and Maria) is sharing gossip and Mexican candy. Anais, Alizee and Helene are dancing and singing their way down the hallway interrupting Sophia's nightly routine watching tv shows on YouTube. And last but not least on this floor, Yu Jin is cataloguing her collection of scarves. From here we follow the sound of Nia to the Annex where she's laughing so hard that Paige is interrupted from her daily, lengthy talks with Mike. Sophie is trying to find the next season of Veronica Mars, even though Paige keeps telling her it doesn't exist. Our resident TODs are busy too. Ms McGurk has just set off the smoke alarm again for the fifth time tonight. Ms. D-H is walking her dogs and Mrs. Carey is reading the latest novel. Tracy our houseparent is catching up on her sleep before heading out on her 4am rounds to catch the pranksters. So now you know what happens at Gillard, at least some nights.

To the girls who didn't survive, we wish you well, but to those who did, we are going to let you in on a little secret as to how they did so.

As for Alyna, returning back to school a day after we are supposed to helped a lot as that extra day in Montreal meant more than that.

Leonie and Sammy's mid night ruckus wasn't as sneaky as they'd planned. Let's just say, they spent more hours in Glass that weekend than they had intended, but it kept them going.

Alex and Ella are visiting their childhood with outside games and late night sleepovers.

Laurie, what bright eye shadow, and leggings, and hair bows...the brightness of her outfit, in short the rainbow which she carries everywhere.

Valerie: Walking up all those stairs to sign in with Miss Harding kept her model walk in tip top shape.

Claire, where is Claire? I think the Prefect room, with Ryan? Or Lenn with Ryan. Ryan is Claire's version of Tylenol for her survival.

Suzanne, nail polish queen, pink, pink and more pink.

Hikaru enjoys the finest things in life such as her weekend vacations to the art studio, aka her sister's room.

Pauline baby, and her cadet announcements. It's actually all for show; she's the sweetest trilingual flamenco dancer ever!

Jenny/China wow the energy, the study, study, and of course the excellent massaging skills.

Sarrah, the beautiful beast. The perfect woman, beauty, brains, sporty. Her perfection just keeps her strong.

Akayla my dear, give that book back to the library there are plenty more in your room, you addict.

Alex G, the French beauty, the ideal girlfriend, always in shape with her weekly jogs.

Amy, the adorable little chef who has found her Taiwanese Prince William.

Vicky and her work ethic, her sense of humour and cuteness. Wow! You amaze us everyday.

Jessica's long hair has been cut to reveal the woman in her and her determination for success.

Rachel, always doing library prep, or so we think. Nah, just playing, she's actually working, and getting free massages everyday from her Geoffrey Poo.

Deanza, the young child of the upper floor is in tight competition with Suzy for head of The Pink Lovers Society....if she can find her way out of her room.

MS and her obsession with Desperate Housewives every Sunday, dedication like no other. Don't talk while it's on or else she will attack you.

Morgan and her crazy dances in the middle of other people's rooms, and the trail of stuff she leaves in those rooms and all over the house. Come get your computer!

Mayowa and her risqué attires with high heels. PHOTOSHOOT! Waaay too much Tyra!

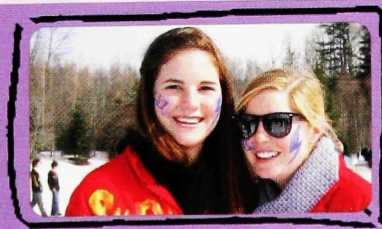

Hotaru and her room. The bedroom/hair salon/art studio. Also, always a place where you can go and laugh :]

Andrea's extra moments of sleep.

Roxana almost made it onto the list of non-survivors, with her lack of noodle-making abilities. However, she pulled through by making use of the fire extinguisher.

Not only did we all survive, we survived with style. With the help of our amazing TODs,

Ms. Goldfinch, Mme Rivest, Ms. Harding, Koula and our second mother Julie, we made it through the year. Congratulations!

Chapman: The House of Champions

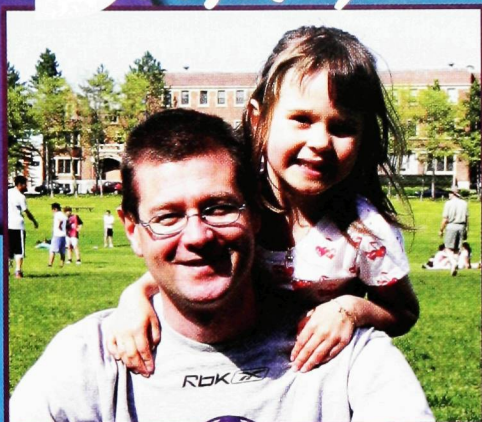

In a place far, far away, lived 14 lively characters who were able to team up and achieve the unthinkable: winning Carnival! In the past former Chappies came close, but this prize had always eluded them. It might have been by a slim margin, but they did it. Let me briefly describe them.

Room 1 had overgrown Patrick and Mexicano Miguel. If the first one could not survive without Diet Coke, Miguelitos could not be anything but a girl's charmer. In room 2 was another pair of peculiars: Jason, the Prefect swimmer and Éric, the gone with my friends kept their room cluttered because they were too busy. Another mismatch occurred in room 3 from which the too verbal Vasken planned his pranks while the quiet Guitar Hero Dylan was sleeping.

Upstairs, starting with room 4 we had the sleepless pair of Vaughan and François. No wonder they could not make it in time in the morning! Then in room 5 we had the basketball connection made of Danger Wang and Chee. Both were specialist in food: one cooking noodles, the other one ordering Dominos! Then in room 6 we had the high scholar and the high profile. If Nic was showing off with his knowledge, Léo did too with his body, anytime he could. Finally the last room was made up of a pair of future lifers. If Mr. Three Computers, Kevin, (aka Big K), was fairly organized, his athletic roommate Antony tried his best to avoid pranksters mischief and to beat his HP at badminton, golf and even at drinking Pepsi. Add to these characters the TODs, Mr. Jackson, Mr. Pfliger and Mr. Rae.

This wild combination was able to perform other marvels such as winning the Cross Country Jr. Shield and the Track & Field Jr. banner supported by countless BBQs. Hmm! Was that the key to their success? No wonder Mr. D was tired by the end of the year. Now you know the story of the House of Champions.

Being the greatest house on campus, McNaughton has a couple of secret powers that aren't common knowledge around school. One of these many powers is the ability to travel in time, so we decided to jump forward 20 years to see how the men of McNaughton turned out. Here is what we found:

- Hugo married the richest woman in Mexico; he now lives there with his Asian butler.
 - Min Sung is a celebrated adult film director.
 - Julian is dating a 30 year old Mexican girl, no complaints.
 - Evan is the CEO of his own video game company. He has a beer with the Prime Minister on weekends.
 - Mohammed lives with 40 cousins in his palace.
 - Geordie became so good at squash, everyone else quit.
 - Tyler is the President of Barbados. Time magazine rated him nicest man of the year 2020.
 - Samuel is the UFC Champion 15 years running.
 - Alex is a guild master, still takes on Pierre Papon.
 - Chai became the most famous French Rabbi.
 - Adrien was kicked off the national French soccer team for head butting Zidane.
 - Alexander legally changed his name to Bob, nothing else.
 - Edgar is fully disabled after the other knee was taken out. He lives in downtown Sherbooke with his 4 kids and equally disabled wife.
 - Carlo revolutionized stand up comedy; he is now a multi-millionaire.
 - Abel recently beat Tiger Woods in the PGA tour set in the deserts of Arabia.
 - Tom Wang mathematically cured cancer.
 - Dustin plays lead point guard for 12 NBA teams which he also owns.
 - Jobst is running for Governor of California, his campaign is based around setting a 16 year old drinking age.
 - Sam beat Usain Bolt in a race blindfolded.
 - Fernando invented the first ever hair gel powered watch; he's never late!
 - Jordan is the first ever leader of the Independent State of Quebec.
 - Michon discovered a sleeping disorder that triples your IQ. They called it Michonitis.
 - Xavier is the richest French male model.
 - Jeong Joon owns his own clothing and tobacco factory.
 - Mario has made a living breaking old glass with his fists. It pays well.
 - Mr. Marino had to get his legs removed because his footsteps began smashing holes in the floor. He is the first man with robotic legs.
 - Richard Owen is now the supreme ruler of England. He throws us all reunion parties in his castle.
- Upon arriving in the future, we were shocked to find out that Nick Olender and James Truckle died of the first ever cases of being too patriotic. May they rest in peace.

The men of McNaughton have bright years ahead of them. You can see they've harnessed all the skills they've learned in the residence and put them to good use. Good luck men!

Prefects Get Us All in the BCS Spirit!

A great afternoon was had by all as we gathered on a beautiful September day to boost our spirits for another year at BCS. Many crazy games were played but the big event this year was the cheer contest: which house could come up with the best cheer for the new BCS Bears? The winners: Smith House
Their secret weapon: the original BCS bear in their cheer!

Mountain Day

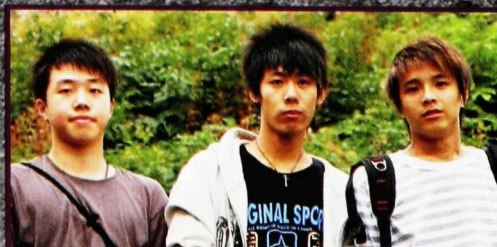

September 6

Mt. Orford Gets Higher Every Year!

On Saturday, it was the school's annual Mountain Day. Some were hoping for rain but did not get it. It was hot and humid, making the day all the more challenging. We arrived at the base of the mountain at noon, where we quickly ate our lunches before starting the hike up. Joined by a few parents and old friends, we climbed Mt. Orford once again.

As usual, the hike was hard. Some chose to take the easier, longer way up along the road, but lots chose to go the harder, steeper way. At parts, the rocks were wet and the mud deep, but we kept going. When we finally reached the top, the wind seemed to come from nowhere, but it cooled us down as we waited for everyone to make it. Once the house and school photos were taken, we packed our stuff away and started back down the mountain. Luckily, we just escaped the rain as it started pelting down after less than twenty minutes on the bus ride home. It was a great day!

September 14

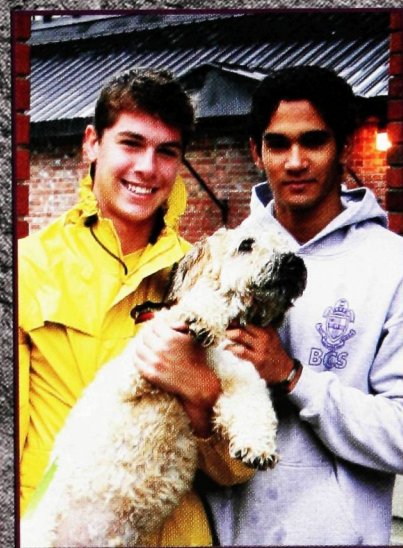

Terry Fox Run

On Sunday, September 14th, students, teachers, staff and townsfolk alike, walked, ran or biked for a cause. The skies opened up, and rain pelted down just in time for a soggy start, but even this did not dampen the spirits of the participants.

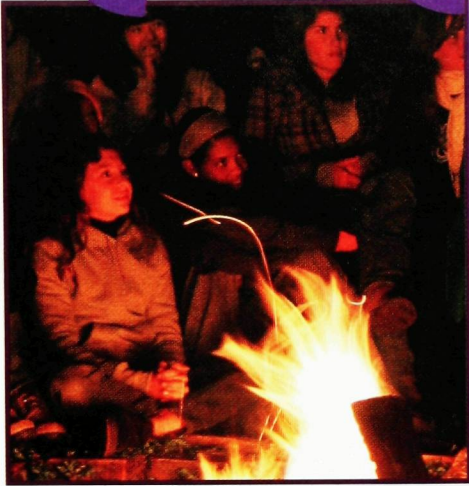

The annual Terry Fox run organized by and held at BCS drew an enthusiastic crowd. People from around and within the school gathered to show support for cancer research, in memory of Canadian hero and cancer patient, Terry Fox.

Upon crossing the finishing line, people gasped sighs of relief or panted out of exhaustion. But surely, inside, they felt the true spirit of charity. BCS was able to raise at least $10,000.00 thanks to the wonderful generosity of all who participated.

Cadet Camp

September 20 - 22

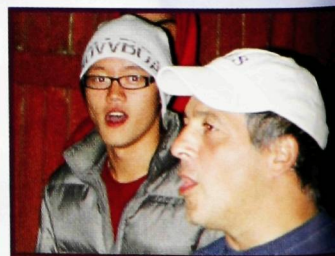

The NCOs, Prefects and helpers arrived at the beautiful grounds of Frontier Lodge. The lake, the basketball court and the tetherball court would be our entertainment before the new cadets arrived. This was our playground and we did not hesitate to start playing. Although it was freezing, the lake was brought to life with the swimming, tubing and laughter that filled it. After all our energy had been used, we relaxed, watched a couple of movies and slept in our sleeping bags which didn't keep as much heat in as we hoped they would.

We woke up bright and early, preparing for the arrival of the new cadets. Orienteering, canoeing, skits, sports, and flag-making filled each cadet's schedule.

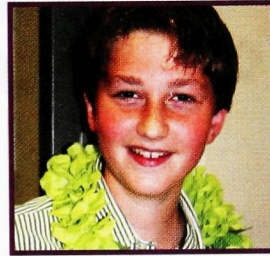

That evening we sat around the campfire. After the skits the entertainment continued with break dancing by Zin, opera by Mr. Marino, improv with Mr. Maxwell and singing Disney songs with Suzanne. The campfire ended with more singing and we made our way to the rec room and the cadets to their designated cabins.

The last day we finished a couple more activities and headed for one last task: Tug-of-war. We battled it out; it was group versus group, NCOs versus helpers until the rope tore and we got the message that we should start heading off to the buses.

October 31

Halloween Dance

I want to tell you why this has become one of my favourite days of the year.

It isn't because it's the end of a flat-out nine-week session although it is. And it's not because it's the beginning of the first real break of the year, although it is. It's because of the opportunity that each of you who is running has today.

We speak a lot at BCS about character. Recti Cultus Pectora Roborant can be translated to Right Learning Strengthens the Character and today is a day which challenges your character. One measure of character is how you perform doing something that's hard, that has to be done whether you want to do it or not.

To the rest of you, to all of you who won't win today, the challenge is to do better than people expect you to do, to do better than you expect yourself to do. Perhaps that means something as simple as to run, and to never stop running for the whole race. Perhaps it means, after the first 500 meters, looking at the back of the person in front of you, and getting past that one, and then going on to the next. Perhaps it means sprinting the last 200 meters to win, only to be beaten out, but deep down to know that you had done your best, that you didn't leave anything out there and someone else's best was just a bit better on this day.

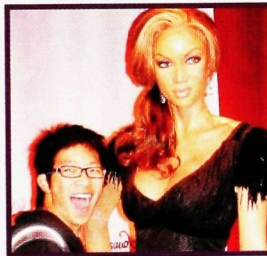

This is an opportunity to show your teachers that you are made of stronger stuff than they might think so far. This is an opportunity to show yourself that you have more determination and guts than maybe you thought you did. Invariably, and for over a century, this happens on this day. Invariably, teachers and houseparents think, "There's more to this student than I thought." Invariably, students, pale and exhausted, muster a smile because they know that, win or lose, for once, they did the best they could.

November 11 Remembrance Day

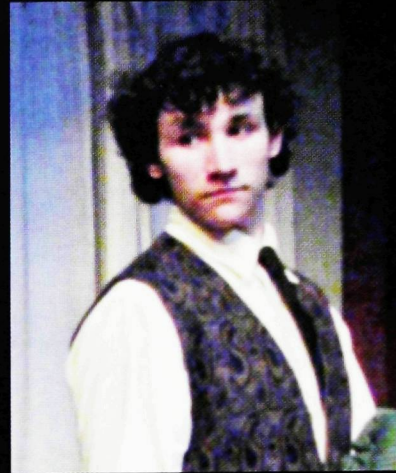

The entire BCS community gathered in St. Martin's Chapel to remember and honour the BCS Old Boys and Masters who were killed in the First World War, the Second World War and the Korean Conflict. During the reading of the names of the lost, the students, who were standing, sat down one by one as each name was read to give a visual impact of the numbers of students and three masters lost. Jennifer Harding-Marlin (Form VI) who had been chosen as BCS' representative for the Vimy Foundation trip to France and England this past August, spoke eloquently about her experiences in Europe.

Christmas Events

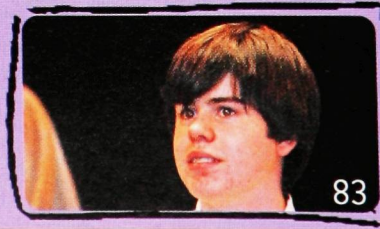

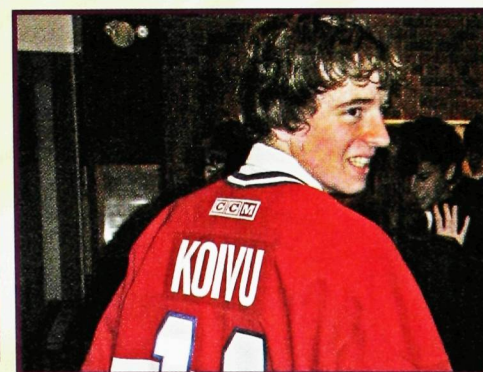

On Saturday, December 6th, the BCS and local community were treated to the melodious sounds of the BCS Choir as well as the Junior Band, the Senior Band and the Stage Band. This annual Christmas event is held at Bishop's University's Centennial Theatre.

The evening began with the members of the Junior Band who played with enthusiasm and volume. The performance of the Senior band was nothing less than extraordinary. The Stage Band, as always, was upbeat, playing for fun and enjoyment, both for themselves and for the audience. All bands are led by Mr. R. Jackson, music teacher at BCS.

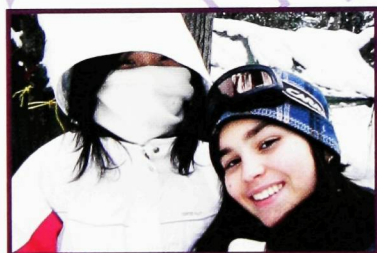

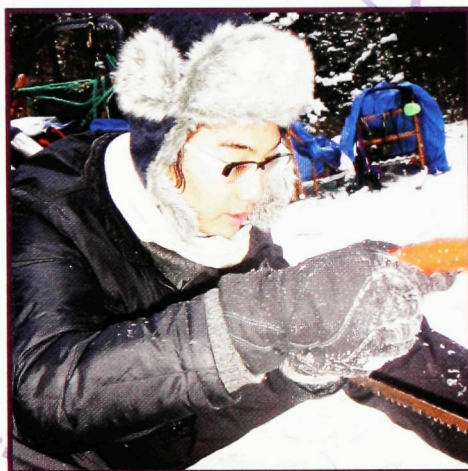

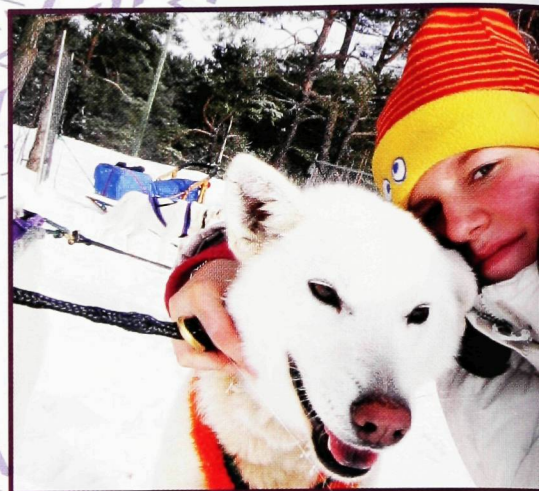

St. Martin's Chapel Choir, directed by Mme. M. Simard, was delightful, singing catchy holiday tunes and putting everyone in the spirit of the upcoming holidays. An enjoyable evening in every way!

An added attraction of the evening was the silent auction. Many items, including a signed Saku Koivu game jersey, a week's stay at a condo in Nevis, a kayak and even pizzas for two years were bid on by enthusiastic students and parents. The money raised, over $4,000.00, will go to AIDS research. Thanks go to everyone who made this such a successful event.

Fun Games

Ceramic Bowl 2008

On the weekend an amazing event in the history of sport took place. In the time-honoured (4 years) tradition of staff/student games at BCS, this was one for the books.

At 12:30, at the end of regulation time in the Ceramic Bowl, the staff team had five touchdowns, the students had four. You would think it ended there.....but no.

With time expired, and with the staff in the lead, the students asked for three more plays. The staff, being the good sports they are, said "sure, you can have three more plays." Well, that act of generosity marked the end for the staff. The student team scored, tying the game at five touchdowns each. When the game entered overtime, I knew the staff team was done.

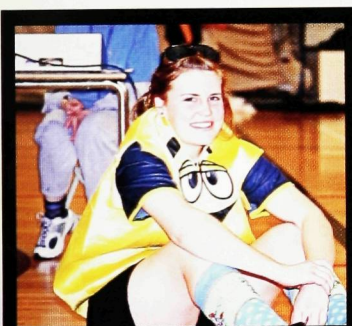

You see, every year the staff gets a little older...a little slower... a little rounder. So, it is with great pain in my joints and heart that I surrender this trophy to a very talented and deserving team.

Tall Ship Sailing

March 14 - 20

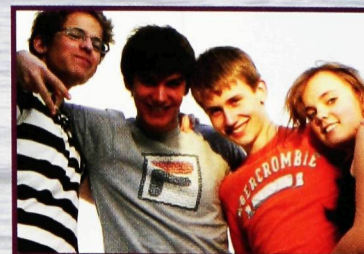

The fifth annual Leeward Islands Sail Adventure, otherwise known as the Tall Ship Trip, was another great success.

This year's voyage was enjoyed by nine students and their fortunate chaperon, Mr. Leger. Captained by former BCS student Robert Ash, the crew set sail from St. Maarten and continued to island-hop to destinations such as St. Barths, St. Kitts and Nevis, and St. Eustatius. On their journey, the students braved a stormy sea, hiked through a rainforest hidden in the crater of an extinct volcano, explored the ruins of an ancient colonial fortress, and, of course, learned some of the basics of sailing.

Other highlights of the trip included spotting monkeys, snakes, sea turtles and flying fish. They also enjoyed the whimsical tunes of their reggae-singing taxi driver, Watuzi. The group was pleasantly surprised, and refreshed, when he demonstrated the fine, yet strenuous, art of opening fresh coconut. While on the island of Nevis, the group was generously treated to dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Bowrin, parents of Deanza who is currently in Form VII.

Mr. Leger was impressed with the enthusiasm and camaraderie each of the students displayed during the week. A week in the Caribbean might sound luxurious, but life on a sailboat isn't always easy. Despite living in cramped, and occasionally nauseating, conditions, the kids were always positive and ready to do their share of the cooking and cleaning.

Ondaatje in Argentina

A group of five students (S. Ewing, C. Sinsky-Daponte, Y-J. Kang, E. Drew, B. Dupuis) and two teachers (Mme. Hamelin, Mme. Rivest) travelled to Mendoza, Argentina in order to challenge ourselves mentally and physically by horseback riding over the arid Andes mountain range. When we first stepped out of the Mendoza International Airport which rather resembled a small train station, scorching air embraced us and grape vines planted right in front of the airport reassured us that we were in one of the world's largest wine producing countries.

The first three days gave us some time to relax and look around the city of Mendoza. As we took a short, but memorable tour around the city, we witnessed Argentinean culture by visiting various museums, historical sites and parks. During the first three days, we got to shop around the marketplace, at the park and some boutique stores located a few blocks away from the cozy hostel we stayed in.

After enjoying our free time in the city, we packed up all the gear we needed for horseback riding/trekking, and headed to the stable where all the Argentinean horses were waiting for us. Unlike the stable (Ecurie Royale) we trained in, the stable in Uspallata looked like a small dairy farm. Even though from the minute we arrived at the farm, a massive sand storm attacked us, we weren't discouraged and began to unpack everything from our duffle bags and packed everything into small, white saddle bags. There were three guides (gauchos) and Clara, a loquacious translator from Buenos Aires who came with us on the trip.

For five days on horseback, surprisingly, nobody was sore from riding 5-8 hours under the temperature of 35°C thanks to the thick padding we had on our saddles. Everyone on this trip did get very bad sunburn that made our skin peel, but other than that, nobody was injured or sick. We had a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to sleep literally OUTSIDE (Not in the tent) in the wilderness where we saw a field mouse, llamas, horses, cows and lizards. The moon shone on us in the middle of the night, which woke us up.

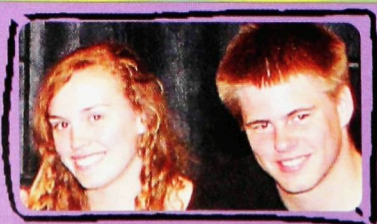

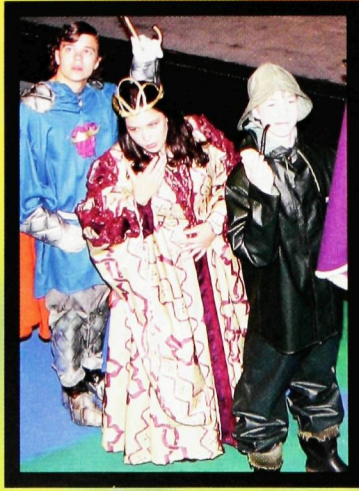

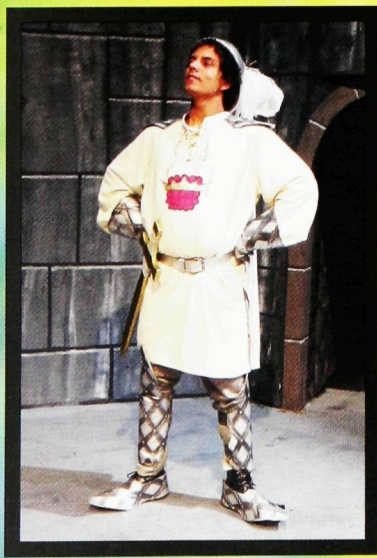

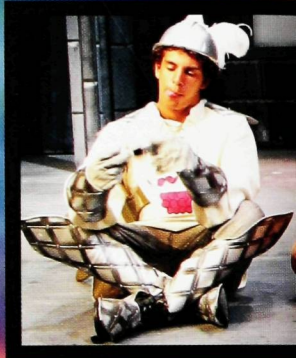

When our horseback riding/trekking was over, we got to enjoy two activities in Mendoza: rafting for 15km on the Mendoza River and on our final day in Uspallata, we hiked up to the park in Aconcagua Mountain. This took us more than four hours to climb to the park, where we enjoyed the beautiful scenery of Aconcagua Mountain.

During my exchange I was fortunate enough to be able to visit one of the major cities nearby, Hamburg. Although I wasn't able to travel all over Germany I was able to see small, but incredible, places, like a beach on the North Sea. I also was able to visit the Bergen-Belsen concentration camp which was an overwhelming experience. Being in Germany allowed me to learn a new language and see a new culture. This exchange helped me to be more confident in myself, and I also met great friends along the way.

Going to Scotland for an exchange was the most amazing thing I did this year. Leaving may have been one of the saddest things I have done because I left all the new friends I made and all the experiences I had. But I was so glad to have done this exchange. It was the experience of a lifetime.

WELCOME RS08 DELEGATES

CREATING SUSTAINABLE COMMUNITIES

Sacha Mercier and Ôdré Lefebvre, accompanied by Mrs. Kathy Rae, spent five magnificent days at a pre-conference excursion in Jasper National Park where we learned from, and explored with, the park rangers and other RS students. After a great week in the Rocky Mountains we traveled by train to Vancouver then bus and ferry to this year's Round Square Conference in Victoria, BC. on Vancouver Island. Megan Herring joined us there.

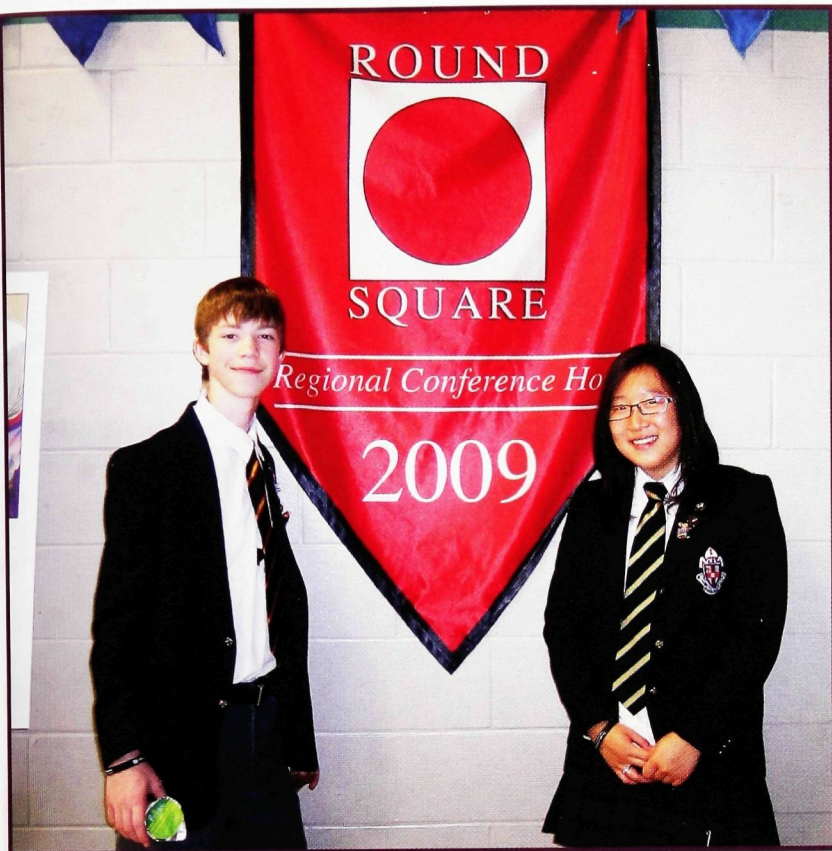

The theme of the conference was 'Creating Sustainable Communities', which the representatives spent the week discussing along with about three hundred other students from Round Square schools around the world. Ideas were shared and plans created, and the group came back to BCS and has starting implementing these eco-friendly ideas into our school system.

After seeing Megan off to India, and before our return home we took a day to see some of downtown Victoria and go on a four hour whale watching expedition where we saw whales, seals and sea lions.

Young Round Square Conference of the Americas Toronto, Ontario

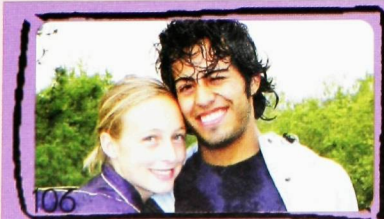

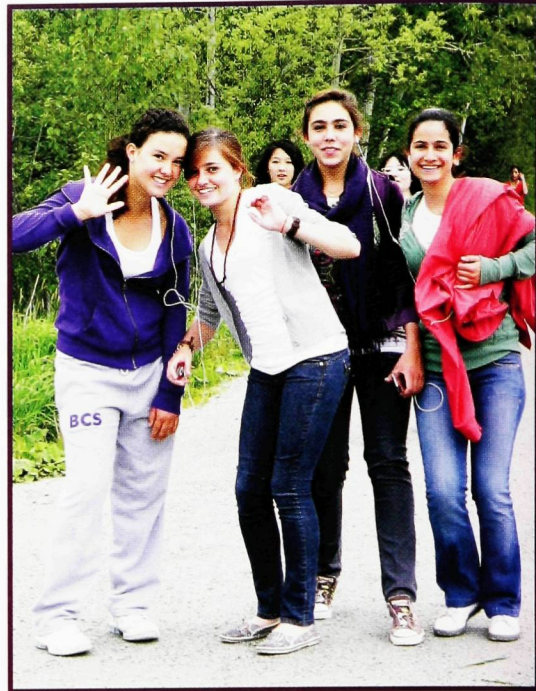

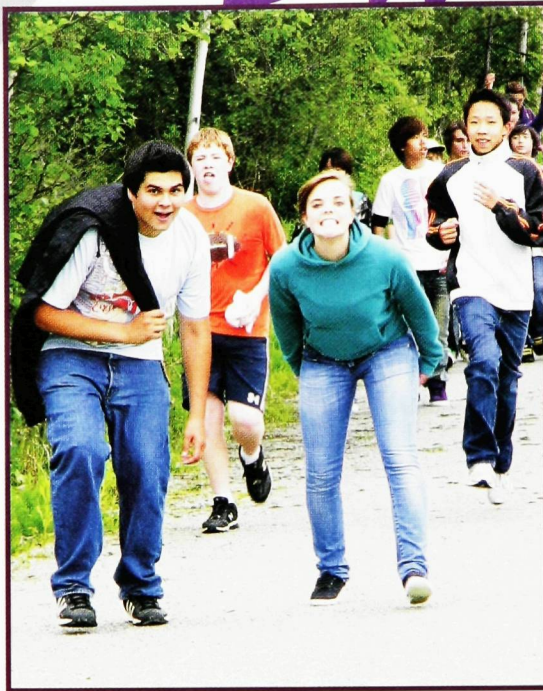

THE POWER WITHIN

Christopher Rae, (Cindy) Ye Eun Lee and Mr. Kirby Nadeau attended the YRSA conference held at Appleby College and Fern Hill School in Oakville, Ontario. It was a very informative conference with motivational keynote speakers such as Michael Lee Chin, a very successful and philanthropic businessman, who funded the construction of the Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto, Craig Keilburger who is an accomplished child rights advocate, and leadership specialist. In addition, delegates listened to entertainer-singer/songwriter Susan Aglukark, who gave a motivational speech on recognizing cultural diversity and encouraged everyone to pursue their dreams. Throughout the conference, activities focused on having delegates think about ways they could make positive global changes from environmental to human rights issues.

Home Country: South Korea
Lasting Memories: This year all I did was working then I learned that anything is not more important than relationship between people. I feel like I've been here for 1 month. I don't have anything right now, but now I want to have fun and I will. I won't lose me and people who gave warm interest on me. I changed me and world changed at the same time.

Name: Jeong Eun Lee
Nickname(s): Shorty, Shortness, Jeong Jeong, dirty Korean, devil, cookie monster.
Home Country: South Korea
Activities: Warden, choir, student librarian, cadet
Ambition: I want to get in Parsons School of Design!!
Lasting Memories: First of all, I would like to thank everyone, who spent a whole year with me in BCS. Well, compared to my life back in Korea, there were a lot of things happened to me during this year. And no matter what those memories were good or not, I am sure they have helped me to become more mature, and see through the world in positive way. In the beginning of this year was quite difficult for me to deal with all the new circumstances (different languages, friends, cultures, and strict school rules, sharing room). But as time went by, I learned how to stand by myself to get through all the difficulties, and now I feel so great and proud of myself. Oh, and I had to admit that our school cookies are the best!!! Even though I gained over 10kg from eating those cookies, I will never regret!

Name: Odre Alexandra Lefebvre

Favourite Quote: Image is everything and talk is cheap.

Name: Alina Mani
Home Country: Dubai
Lasting Memories: My first year at BCS has been an adventurous one. I honestly cannot believe how fast it went. In such a short amount of time, I feel like I have a lifetime of memories, from breaking my knee to the crazy Breaks in Montreal. I want to thank my roommate, Leonie, for making this place ten times better for me! There are too many memories to write down and many more to come. I'm going to miss you next year! Don't ever forget me. I would also like to thank Arnaud for always being there for me and making this year much easier for me. Thanks and good luck to everyone else here!

Favourite Quote: It's my fate to be in between: Heaven and Earth. When we resist our fate, we suffer; when we accept it, we are happy. We have time in abundance in eternity to repeat our mistakes but we only need once to correct our mistake and the last we heard the song of enlightenment which we can break the chain of revenge forever in your heart you can hear now.
 It's the song that has been singing since the moment of your birth. If the monks are right and nothing happens without cause then giving us suffering is to push us closer to the God; to teach us to be strong when we are weak; to be brave when we are weak; to be wise in the mist of confusion; and to let go when we can no longer hold. Yes Geoff I know it's gonna make a shadow and by the way our improv on Flop Cop was Sick. Sleeping in philosophy and eco. Beating staff in football game. Backflip on snowboard and off center stairs with seb, hurdling football player. Getting addicted to Michon's snoring. It actually helps me work, seriously Dustin, Nick and Truckle (the Americans)... you know what I'm gonna say. Also to those I didn't mention Felix, Antoine, Hugo, Vasken, Miguel, Joon, the girls (you know who you are), the rugby team, football team and snowboarders To Everyone: I'll miss you guys.

Ambition: To go to the Olympics.
Probable Destiny: I would like to think that I would win gold at the Olympics, marry the love of my life, become an architect/designer and retire with my family to a vineyard somewhere peaceful. But the only thing that is certain in life is that it comes to an end, so for that, my destiny is to make the most of it while it lasts.
Lasting Memories: With three years of memories I couldn't possibly write them all down. The people here have been amazing. Thank you to all of my friends who have become part of my extended family. I will miss the three musketeers, the pirates, the ninjas, secret keepers and bringing in the cavalry. I'll never forget the late night bank jobs in Chapman and the baby foot leg, or THE CHAPMAN CARNIVAL CHAMPIONS! I love you all and bid you adieu. Until next time.

Favourite Quote:
 - Everyone hears what you say. Friends listen to what you say. Best friends listen to what you don't say.

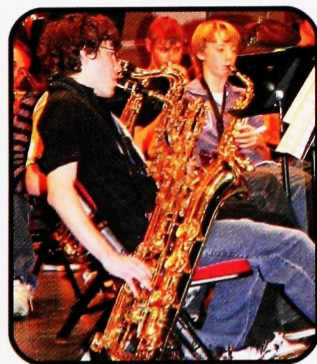

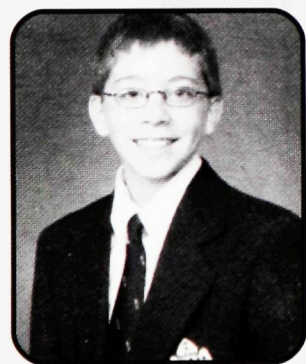

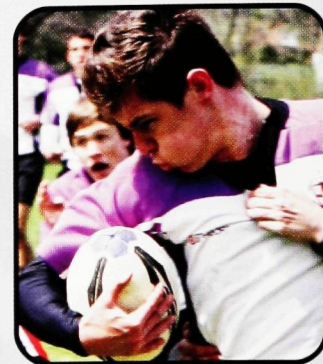

I would say that it takes courage to grow up and become who you are. Six years at Bishop's College School has been no easy task, and yet it has been such a privilege to be here. However, there were times when I wanted to change schools and leave this place forever. Being a sensitive person in such an intimate community can have its low points, which I have been through. Over the years I have been challenged and put to the test in so many ways. Fortunately, in my final year of Form Seven, I have found so much success. Going through six years of hard work, in and out of the classroom, has been worth it. It has been worth it because I now come out at the other end as a successful and happy individual. Sure a lot of students have gotten me down over the years, but there were always those special people who stood by me and supported me through thick and thin. I thank them for everything, and I thank Bishop's College School for all it has done for me. I have a bit of advice: don't be afraid to make mistakes. And when you make those mistakes, don't be afraid to learn from them. It's those mistakes that help you move forward in the world. Anyway, that's just my opinion - take it or leave it. Bye now.

Six years, four houses, basketball and rugby championships, helping Chapman win its first Carnival, my life is full of memorable moments. I could not have done it without the support of my friends and some key people. Mom and Dad, thank you so much. Hasta la vista baby!

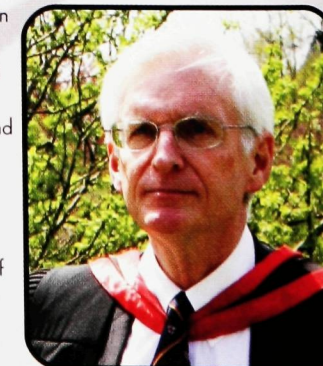

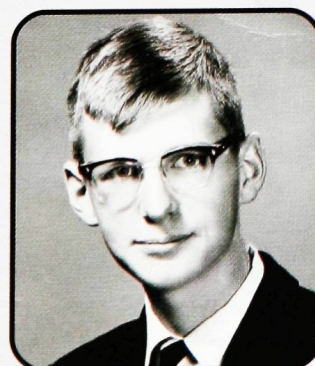

I have been given the impossible task of writing about what it has meant to me to be a BCS Lifer. I spent the first nine years of my life on campus wanting to get in to BCS and the next nine working to get out (by graduating, of course); after eleven years away, I returned to teach for a few years and I stayed for thirty-three. And now I've been given 250 words to say what that's like!

I share this page with Arnaud, Brandon and Vasken - my Lifers: mine because they began BCS as I became Head and we graduate together - they after six years, I after fifty-one. These three represent so much of all the students I have known since I started teaching forty years ago. Each has been a source of concern, even frustration, to me, and each has brought me great joy. I think especially of the two who have managed to contribute to this page, and I remember Vasken's first week, and Brandon's first month. I remember my joy and pride in their God-given talent, and my frustration when their personal struggles impeded their potential. I was glad to be a factor in their growing up, and that's the point really.

There is no privilege for a teacher that beats having even a small influence on someone in the most difficult years of his or her life. And there is no greater responsibility. I cannot imagine a better place to have had that privilege and responsibility than on the beautiful campus of BCS, with my colleagues and friends, and with BCS students who have so often been a source of inspiration.

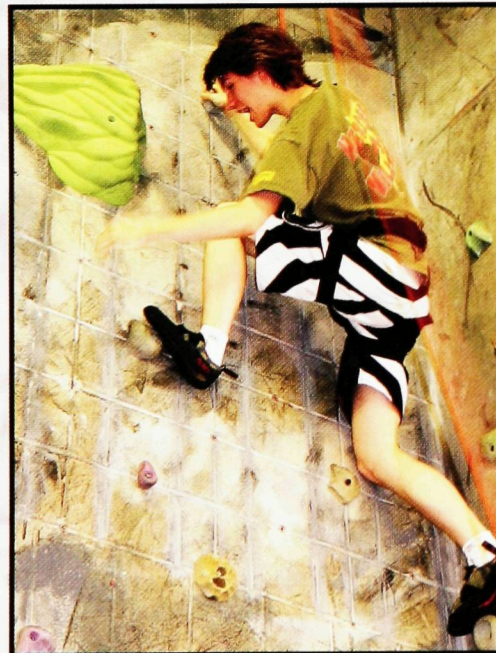

Speaking as the Lifer-to-end-all-Lifers, it's a pretty good place to spend one's life!

In September 2003 you entered B.C.S. as a young, nervous boy demonstrating great promise but carrying a heart full of confusion. You leave in June 2009 as a confident, talented, handsome, successful young man who's eager to confront the world and its many challenges. From the classroom to the gym, the playing fields to the black box theatre, you have grown immeasurably and can take pride in your gifts and achievements.
We wish you a bright future, Bran.

Prefects

Our first accomplishment was all making it through this year. Not only did we survive, but it was a great time. Every time we worked together, we ended up laughing and joking around, but when we focused, we were able to work together and get what we needed to done. We had an awesomely diverse group of athletes, actors, musicians, speakers and just all around good people.

Lewis Evans, Headmaster
BCS 19?? - 2009

And now, here we are. Some of you are finishing a three-term stay at BCS. Three of you are finishing your 18-term stay and I'm finishing a 153rd. But I cheat. I count my childhood and why wouldn't I? Those years are the most important in forming the person we become. But now it's over and we go to what's next. And what is next? And are we prepared? Are you prepared? Well, I think you are. Prepared at least to start the next step. And I hope, prepared enough to see it through to the step beyond that.

Preparation, though, has less to do with what you know, although that is important, than it has to do with who you are. And I don't mean your name or your position in society. I mean who you are as a person, what kind of person you are, what kind of character you have. I want to remind you what Major Turner told us on the morning of the Cadet Inspection. He was telling us about his first tour in Afghanistan, the time when his task was keeping General Hillier alive. He said that every morning, when he woke up, he knew he had to be on. No matter what was happening in his life, no matter what had happened the day before; no matter what, he had to be on. How does one do that day after day?

Major Turner's words stuck with me because when you're on, you're at your best. I hope that you will be able to bring out your best when you need it, and even when you don't. And that's a problem. You won't always know when you have to be at your best.

About 37 years ago, when I was really young and in my third year teaching in Winnipeg, I had a student called Bruce Sutherland. He was a short wiry guy from the north shore of Lake Superior. He struggled academically and he was useful athletically more by dint of effort than talent; he was a basically good kid, and I liked him. One day he said to me something like, "You know Sir, you said something to me that changed my life."

I was dumbfounded. I had no idea what it was. He told me I'd said, "You know, Sutherland, one day you're going to wake up and see what a good guy you are, and you're never going to look back from there." It sounded like something I'd say, so I chose to believe him, but it really scared me. If it was so important to him, why hadn't I remembered it? And that taught me a lesson: what we say can be important whether we mean it to be or not.

Faculty-student interactions in a school like this are broad and varied. We talk, we commiserate, we scold, we push, we plead, we demand, we joke, we banter, we get to know each other very well, both formally and casually, and who knows when something said casually will strike such a chord with the listener that it will change his life.

I am a teacher. I am an English teacher, and a drama teacher. No matter what else I've done in my life, that is the base on which I have built. Words are important to people like me, and every now and then, some great writer or playwright or poet or troubadour strings together a series of words that speak directly to what I think. Now as some of you know, I have in the last year become an ardent Leonard Cohen fan; it's a condition I caught from my wife after prolonged exposure. These are his words: Ring the bells that still can ring / Forget your perfect offering / There is a crack in everything / That's how the light gets in.

There is a crack in everything. Nothing is perfect, that's how the light gets in. And that's what brings life and learning to all things. To take it a step further: Mistakes are bound to happen. Don't be afraid of them. Be honest about them. Learn from them. The job of teaching is an awesome responsibility or perhaps I should say awful, for it is full of awe. 37 years ago, I learned from Bruce Sutherland that I, as a teacher, had to be on when I talked to students and over the years I have succeeded and failed at that. And I have tried to learn from my failures. We all have flaws and we all keep going, and that brings me to another thing that was said this term, this time by Mr. Gilman. It was the week after the CAIS Rugby Tournament and I was talking to him about the performance of the Boys First Team, and he said, "They've got no quit in them." The team had beaten St. Andrew's, beaten Ridley and UCC and lost a close one (yes, I know, a controversial one) to Ashbury but they "had no quit" in them.

You have all heard my favourite words from Sir Francis Drake: "It is not the beginning but the continuing of the same until the end, until it be thoroughly finished, that yieldeth the true glory." Of course, things do come to an end. And since this is my last chance to do this, I want to say thank you. Thank you to the Faculty, Staff, and the Admin Team. A special thank you to my secretary Sheila Lyster. And I want to thank you parents, grandparents and families who have sent your sons and daughters to our school. Thank you for believing in what we do and in what we have here. Thank you for sharing them with us in this crucial time of their lives. And finally, to you the students, to you as representatives of all the students of the last forty years, to you as representatives of students who have come from all around the world, thank you. Thank you for the lessons you have taught us. There is nothing in my experience that matches seeing you perform beyond the best you thought possible. This is the reward of teaching. This is the joy of my professional life. It is your potential and resilience that gives us all confidence in the future. You've learned a lot here, whether you were here for one year or six, for three terms or eighteen. Take these lessons with you. But more important, take who you are with you.

Don't be afraid of the crack in everything, the inevitable mistakes along the way. Rather face them honestly so that you learn from them. Be on as much as you can, so that your best will come out. Have "no quit in you" so your character will shine.

God speed, fare well and thank you.
